The Methodist Episcopal Conference Now on at Blairsville.

Large Congregations Are Now the Rule in Pittsburg Churches.

THE PULPIT TOPICS FOR TO-MORROW

The Methodist Episcopal Conference Blairsville is the center of interest in that denomination at present. The Bishop in his address stated that it was desirable for pastors to remain the full limit of the itinerary whenever possible and instructed presiding elders to that effect. The pleasant weather and return of the summer vis itors insure large congregations in Pittsburg's churches, and a wide diversity of topics is presented by the clergy of the two —There exists in Cincinnati an organized gang of desperate men and women who frequent concert halls, and being in league with a waiter in each place, they are often given valuable pointers by this confederate. The plan is for the women to seat themselves at a table, and if a friendly waiter has noticed a visitor in the place display any amount of money in paying for refreshments the women are "given the tip." They then attempt to attract their intended victim to their table, and if successful the drinks are called for, and the friendly waiter, who remains conveniently at hand to wait on the party, drops a penny pill composed of mornhine into the victim's glass. After partaking of the drink the women lure the victim to their retreat and rob him. This is thought by the detectives to have been the methods employed in robbing Wren and Randall, the latter of whom had $100 of the money Wren's employer gave him to take to bank.
